

Probus defeated the GETAE on the lower Danube before crossing to Asia Minor where bands of robbers led by LYDIUS the Isaurian were terrorizing Pamphylia and Lycia. The rebel forces surrendered to Probus's forces after lengthy siege. LYDIUS was killed in the fighting.

Next came suppression of a rebellion in Upper Egypt, led by a Nubian people to BLEMMYAE

279

Partus in lost; war against
Sassanians & BLEMMY AE

279

Suppression of revolt of Saturninus.

Autumn 279

Portus must have felt that he had consolidated his hold over the eastern & western provinces. This confidence was ill-founded.